Edper,

I requested for an iPad Pro exactly one year ago (April 2016). My request specifically included an Apple Pencil along with other accessories. My intention was to use the iPad pro and Pencil in creating visual aids (illustrations, line drawings, and caricatures) as material for my teaching slides/presentations. While I can download images nowadays, creating my own illustrations will allow me to adopt them to Micronesian as well as global settings which my students can more easily relate to.

My choice of the iPad Pro and Apple Pencil is driven by the fact that creation of digital graphics are among their strong points. I understand I will be also be needing appropriate apps to take advantage of this feature, and I intend to order them later after my request is hopefully approved.

The development of tailored-to-my-audience visual aid materials for class presentations represents my strategy to meet both program and course-level student learning outcomes. The learning outcomes to be addressed are all those specified in the syllabus, a copy of which I furnish you and the committee for reference.

Thank you and regards,

Rafael

Dear Colleagues,

I will be joining the ICT committee meeting today. And one of the item that will be tackled is the purchase of iPad by Business Division.

I check on some reasons behind the purchase and I didn't see any connection to learning outcomes or at least cannot be double in the older iPad that we have.

So, I am crossing my finger if I could defend well the reason behind the purchase of iPad with the outline of reasons provided before from the Chair himself.

By the way if you have any concern regarding ICT matter please do so. So, that I could make it known today

GOD bless.

Sincerely,
