See data as reported by AUs under the department of student services.
How does this AU serve the population of the College?
These student support programs and services are under the college's department of student services, and they include: (a) admissions, registration and records; (b) financial aid, work-study, and scholarships; (c) guidance and peer counseling including tutoring services; (d) basic health care services; (e) sports and recreation; (f) residence halls; and (g) student activities, clubs and organizations.
Since the previous AU program review, what significant changes have occurred that impact the services of the AU?
This is the first program review conducted about the AU. Prior to 2013, the Office evaluates quality of programs and/or services through annual assessments.
What methods are used to evaluate AU's effectiveness to the population that interacts with it?	What do the results of the above methods of evaluation indicate about the effectiveness of the AU?	How have the results of this analysis been used to make improvements to services provided by the AU?

Strengths, Weaknesses, Opportunities, Challenges (SWOC)
Based on analysis in the preceding sections, what are the AU's strengths?	<ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>1. Diverse and comprehensive array of student support services the support student learning, and advances the achievement of the college's missions, goals and objectives. These student support services include: admissions and records; financial aid; counseling and tutoring services; peer counseling; student life (health services, residence halls, and sports and recreation); student clubs, activities and organizations.</li> <li>2. Student support services are student-centered and that they are available at all campus locations. More so, these services are responsive to student needs and engagement. 2014 CCSEE survey shows a mean (weighted) rating of 68.9 as compared to the mean ratings of 52.1 and 50.0 for small colleges and 2014 cohort, respectively.</li> <li>3. The department promotes culture of evidence and continuous improvement. Even students are engaged in assessments of their sponsored or organized activities.</li> <li>4. Student-centered programs and services that promote a sense of community. In the 2014 CCSSE survey, 59.1 of the 537 students (sample) who responded to the question "How much does this college emphasize each of the following: providing the support you need to thrive socially" signified "very much" while 31.4 and 24.9 expressed "quite a bit" and "some," respectively; 10.9 indicated "very little." More on CCSSE, see 9c, and 9d.</li> <li>5. In summer 2014, the department organized a Summer Summit and through extensive and purposeful dialogue revisited its mission statement, and introduced revisions to further align it with the college's mission statement, strategic directions, IEMP objectives, etc.</li> <li>6. The department offers student support services that are available at all campuses.</li> </ol>

Based on analysis in the preceding sections, what are the AU's weaknesses?	<ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>1. Budget cutbacks</li> <li>2. Most, if not all, of the units under the department are under-resourced attributing to budget cutbacks as result of declining enrollment and other factors. As results of the 2010 job-audit's findings and recommendations, several positions were eliminated. While the recommendation for eliminating position may yield to some "savings" in terms of spendings on salaries and compensations; a question whether such recommendation is apt especially in an educational setting.</li> <li>3. The department's current "reporting to" structure.</li> <li>4. Assessments and program review processes lack integration.</li> <li>5. Capacity building: student support services staff.</li> </ol>
Based on analysis in the preceding sections, what opportunities existing for the AU?	<ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>1. Recruitment and strategic enrollment management plan development specifically with the optimism to address the college's enrollment challenges.</li> <li>2. Expanding the cross-training program for support services staff: intra- and inter-department cross training in collaboration with other departments.</li> <li>3. A one-stop student services center.</li> </ol>
Based on analysis in the preceding sections, what challenges exist for the AU?	<ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>1. Declining enrollment leading to reduced appropriations, possibly leading to reduction of staff.</li> <li>2. The college's current structure especially in terms of the "reporting to" structure of student services units at the state campuses. The structure creates a "longer route" of reporting, and provides challenges especially in the areas of coordinated and department-level focused initiatives, coordinated assessments, etc.</li> <li>3. Budget cutbacks.</li> </ol>

Evaluation of Processes used by AU

Describe any on-going systematic method used to evaluate the efficacy of processes used by the AU.

The office conducts annual assessments and biennial review to identify the student needs, and systematically assess and evaluate effectiveness of its student support programs and services. Assessments and program reviews are conducted in accordance with the college's continuous improvement policy, and the procedures and pertinent guidelines established in the college's Program Assessment and Program Reviews Procedures Manual of 2013.

Provide example (s) of how this AU program review has led to continuous quality improvement

Through this program review, the office is able to identify strengths and areas for improvement; what and how it can contribute to student learning, growth and development; and inform program enhancement and improvement. These all are crucial to informing enhancement of programs and services ensuring the quality and that support services especially in terms of: (a) improving delivery of programs and services to effectively and efficiently meet student needs; (b) supporting student learning through ensuring a supportive learning environment; and (c) advancing the accomplishment of its institutional mission

How has AU's assessment of Service Area Outcomes led to improvements in services provided to patrons

1. Comprehensive Student Life Program. The VPSS office coordinated the development of a comprehensive student life plan that is published in the 2012-2013 Student Handbook. A copy of the handbook is also accessible from <http://www.comfsm.fm/publications/handbook/Student-hand-book-2012-2013.pdf> in downloadable portable document format (pdf). Additionally, a student life calendar for 2012-2013 chronologically outlining the various activities by units or offices is also included in this handbook.
2. Calendar of Student Activities. An online calendar of student co- and extra-curricular activities, e.g., forum, workshops and trainings, etc., are now published in the VPSS webpage, <http://www.comfsm.fm/?q=vpss>. The online calendar provides information about the co- and extra-curricular activities available for students, the schedule, and most importantly, succinct descriptions of the activities and how they are directly linked to or support the college's institutional student learning outcomes. For example, counseling office's Study Skills Workshop, November 6, 2014, 1:00-2:00 PM, MITC, and a description of the workshop "... is designed to help student develop the skills necessary for success in their academic courses. Participants will learn strategies for note-taking, time management, reading critically, concentration and studying, and test taking strategies. These are important skills that help the students here at College of Micronesia-FSM, as such students will be able to apply skills in their academic courses [ISLO's 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8]."
3. Foster culture of evidence and continuous improvement. The VPSS office also restructured the processes or procedures relating to activities sponsored by or requested by recognized (or associated) student clubs and organizations. In 2013, the VPSS requires recognized student clubs and organizations to articulate the "objectives or outcomes" of their sponsored activities, their criterion or criteria for success, assessment methods including instruments, and others. In summary, student clubs and organizations are required to conduct assessments of their sponsored activities, and assessment reports of prior activities are required for approval of their ensuing activities. Culture of evidence, continuous improvement, and assessments are areas that have been extended by the VPSS office to students through their clubs and organizations.
4. Co- and Extra-Curricular Activities. To ensure that co- and extra-curricular activities are facilitated with consistency in contents and delivery, the VPSS required that all units develop syllabi for all workshops and training and other similar types of activities. The syllabi should include the outcomes as linked to the college's ISLOs, the benchmarks or criteria for success, topical outlines, training resources and references, method of delivery, and method of assessment.
5. Assessment of Student Learning Outcomes in the Student Services. In 2011-2012, the college's department of student services had chosen to shift the emphasis of its assessment from exclusively assessing operational outcomes to include the assessment of student learning outcomes. The shift involved moving away from exclusively assessing and evaluating student support programs and services by the numbers (output measures) and operational outcomes (e.g., satisfaction with service) to include measuring the learning that has occurred as result of the student's involvement in the programs and services that the department facilitates or provides. Not all of the outcomes for the programs and services that the department of student services is charged are student learning — many pertain to the timely, efficient and effective delivery of services (operational outcomes). As such, the college's department of student services has decided to continue assessing and evaluating operational outcomes; however, required all its programs and services to articulate at least one student learning outcome. These outcomes (operational and learning outcomes) are coherent with the college mission and are aligned with appropriate ACCJC standards, the college strategic directions, integrated educational master plan, and institutional learning outcomes. Training on assessment of student services with emphasis on student learning outcomes in the student services was provided to staff at each campus location.
6. Cross-Training of Staff. The VPSS office based on the recommendation of an external consultant whose services was hired by the college to conduct an external evaluation of the college's department of student services, initially launched cross training of staff during the summer of 2013. The cross-training involved staff from CTEC-Pohnpei and the National Campus.
7. Program Assessment and Program Review. The VPSS coordinated efforts toward ensuring that units under the department regularly conduct annual assessments of their programs and services, and complete biennial program reviews of their units. Training sessions were conducted to assist staff involved in conducting assessments and reviews of their unit's programs and services.
